The house

Casa Mirador is organised around a central courtyard covered by a motorised sliding glass dome: open, the patio is an outdoor room; closed, the house keeps its light in any weather. Four levels rise around it, ending in a rooftop with jacuzzi, outdoor kitchen and bar facing the Parroquia. Two fountains, a master bath that opens onto its own garden, and finishes in a style of its own. Delivered furnished and decorated.

Architecture

Vertical house on four levels around a central courtyard; the rooftop works as a fourth façade, oriented to the Parroquia.

Site

Program

Ground level

Garage, entry, central courtyard with the glass dome, two fountains

Living levels

Living, dining, kitchen, TV room and guest half-bath around the courtyard

Bedroom level

Two en-suite bedrooms with A/C; master suite with garden bath

Rooftop

Jacuzzi, outdoor kitchen, bar and terrace facing the Parroquia

Location

Historic center of San Miguel de Allende, walking distance from the Jardín Principal. Views of the town and the Parroquia from the upper levels and the roof.

Historic center of San Miguel de Allende, walking distance from the Jardín Principal.

Materials

Finishes in a style of its own; two fountains; master bath opening onto a private garden. Furnished and decorated.

Condition

Finished, furnished, ready to occupy. Air conditioning and curtains in the bedrooms.

Potential

Parking, a courtyard that can be closed in the rain and a usable roof are rarely found together in the center. Works as a primary residence or as a rental.

ROBERTO'S NOTES

Houses in the center rarely solve light and weather at the same time. The sliding dome does both, and it is the reason the courtyard is the best room in the house.
